

Jana Davis

After graduating from the University of Texas Long School of Medicine in 2008, I began my active duty career with the US Air Force. My education continued a Transitional internship followed by Orthopaedic residency completion at San Antonio Military Medical Center in 2014. Upon completion of residency, I served for 6 more years on active duty as a general orthopaedic surgeon and Assistant Professor at F. Herbert School of Medicine before finishing trauma fellowship at Carolinas Medical Center in 2021. I am now Associate Professor with Penn State Hershey Medical Center practicing level 1 trauma in an academic setting.
